Story

Elisha and the poor Widows oil. 2 Kings 4

The Oil That Never Runs Out By Jill Kemp

*Use big book. Look at the pictures and talk about them. Read the book to children.

https://www.lambsongs.co.nz/OT%20Elisha and the oil that never ran%20out.htm

Things to talk about :

The lady was poor. Her husband had died, and she couldn't pay money that a man had loaned to him.

The lady had two boys. She loved her family.

The man was going to take her boys away to work to pay the money.

She didn't know what to do. She prayed to God.

She went to see a man of God to ask his help.

The man asked what she had in her house?

She had a small bit of oil and that was all.

He told her to borrow lots of empty jars from her neighbours.

Then she shut the door of her house.

She poured some oil in the first jar. There wouldn't be enough in the small jar to fill all the other jars. But there was! The oil just keeps coming and coming. It was exactly enough to fill all the containers they had borrowed. It was a miracle!

The family took the jars and sold them at the market.

Maybe you could have a shop and act out the children buying a jar of "oil"? Look at all the money.

They paid the money back and gave the jars back to their neighbours. I am sure they would have given them a little oil to say thank you!

What about if the lady had not listened?

What if she had only borrowed one jar?

To act out story. Pass out empty “jars”.

Knock on “doors” asking to borrow some – some will have more than one. The last door has none.

Make a market stall – sell oil for money.

Now the lady has money to pay the man!

Play:

Story suggestions:

After you have talked through the story with the Big book.

Talk about cooking oil - oil and flour makes cakes like pizza bases.

Act out the story. A child is “mother,” some children are “sons.
Use small containers.

Keep one empty little bottle for the Mum - this is her own all she has left.

*GIVE OUT Half of the containers to the kids.

 These will be what the mum fills with oil she sells at the market, use these oil filled containers to pour into shoppers own containers.

Remember they need to be returned empty to the kind neighbours who loaned the empty containers.

Someone to “knock” on doors and ask to borrow from them.
Mother & Boys go into room and shut their door like Elisha said.
“Fills” with oil - it just keeps coming and coming!

Do not use water just pretend.

Give out the remaining containers for people to take to the market - they want to buy oil.

Shoppers bring their own containers to buy oil -
They get them "filled" from the ones in Lady's "shop".
"Pour " oil into their containers, then they pay the lady money.

After they go home
Boys return empty containers - maybe they left some oil in the bottom to say thankyou for loaning them to Mum.
They all take the money to the man.

It should be fun.

Re Read big book - now they will understand!

Family. God put you in a family too. God will look after you.
